THE

THURSDAY, APRIL 23, 1772.

LONDON, JANUARY 17.

ON Wednesday the Chapter of the Garter and Bath was held at St. James's, when the two last vacant Ribbands were given to Sir Charles Hotham, and the Honourable Mr. Hamilton.

After the arrival of the French Ambassador, upwards of thirty drummers attended at his house to congratulate him on his return to England, when one of his domestics brought them thirty guineas, but observed, that it was a scandal for men who are in the pay of the King of England to beg on such occasions.

We are assured that the Dutchess of Cumberland is pregnant, and that her Royal Highness's situation has been notified in form.

A commission is preparing to pass the Great Seal, for appointing a new Board of Trade and Plantations.

JANUARY 18.

Mr. Alderman Harley, who is at this time saddled on the Pay-Master General, has lately applied for an additional annual Thousand—but the mortifying answer was, that though his city services were great, a candid retrospection would tell him, that they have been, and are, already over-rated and over-paid.

General Paoli has paid a visit to the Duke of Cumberland at Windsor.

Miracles, says a correspondent, will never cease—The report now being, that the Duke of Cumberland has thoughts of exchanging his naval profession for the clerical, well knowing that lawn sleeves and princely sinecures are not unfrequent things in this country.

JANUARY 20.

There was the most numerous and brilliant Court on Saturday at St. James's, that has been known for many years. There were a very great number of ladies present, and noblemen and gentlemen of all parties attended in honour of the Queen. Nothing could exceed the magnificence of the dresses worn on the occasion. The drawing-room was not cleared till after five o'clock.

Laughlan Maclane, Esq; will set out in a few days for Pennsylvania, where he is appointed Commissioner of the Stores, and is charged with the direction of an affair which is expected to turn out a matter of great importance to this kingdom.

From the Confines of TURKEY, Dec. 4. The Kiaya, or first officer of Abasa Pacha who, after commanding a reinforcement sent to the Crimea, had been beheaded at Trebisonde, by order of the Grand Signor, continues his ravages, to revenge the death of his master and benefactor. Being in possession of the treasures of his late master, he has employed it in raising a body of men, with the assistance of whom he has seized a Caravan, consisting of 200 Camels, guarded by 300 men: Having 20 pieces of cannon and a great quantity of ammunition, he has struck terror even into the fortified places, he burns and pillages all he comes near, and it is greatly feared he will give much trouble to the Ottoman Empire.

LONDON, JANUARY 21.

Prince Ernest of Mecklenburgh is now said to be the Toute les Choses at St. James's, in so much, that not a single step is taken in any affair, whether public or domestic, without his knowledge, nor a single resolution entered into without his approbation.

It appears from a late calculation, that the maintenance of the poor, throughout the several parishes of England, including the expence of infirmaries, amounts to upwards of 600,000 l. per annum.

The Prince of Wales went to the Drawing-room on Saturday last, for the first time, from his own apartments, as Prince of Wales, attended by his own Court.

WESTMINSTER, January 21. This day his Majesty came to the House of Peers, and being in his Royal Robes, seated on the Throne with the usual solemnity, Sir Francis Molyneux, Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, was sent with a message from his Majesty to the House of Commons, commanding their attendance in the House of Peers: The Commons being come thither accordingly, his Majesty was pleased to make the following most gracious Speech:

"My Lords, and Gentlemen,

"It gives me much satisfaction, that nothing in the situation of our affairs, either foreign or domestic, has obliged me to require your attendance earlier than might have been consistent with your private convenience; and that now you are met together, you will find yourselves at liberty to give your whole attention to the establishment of wise and useful regulations of law, and to the extension of our commercial advantages.

"The performance of the engagement of the King of Spain, in the restitution of Port Egmont, Falkland's Island, and the repeated assurances I have received of the pacific disposition of that Court, as well as of other powers, promise to my subjects the continuance of peace; and we may, with the greater confidence, hope, that we shall not be disturbed in the enjoyment of this blessing, as there is no reason to apprehend that we shall become involved in the troubles which still unhappily prevail in one part of Europe.

"The danger of the farther spreading of the infectious sickness in Europe is, I trust, very much abated. But I must recommend it to you not to suffer our happiness in having been hitherto preserved from so dreadful a calamity, to lessen your vigilance in the use of every reasonable precaution for our safety.

"Gentlemen of the House of Commons,

"I have ordered the estimates for the service of the current year to be laid before you. I make no doubt but you will see the propriety of maintaining a respectable establishment of my naval forces: I am pleased, however, to find, that I shall be under no necessity of asking of you, at this time, any extraordinary aid.

"My Lords and Gentlemen,

"The concerns of this country are so various and extensive, as to require the most vigilant and active attention; and some of them, as well from remoteness of place, as from other circumstances, are so peculiarly liable to abuses, and exposed to danger, that the interposition of the legislature for their protection may become necessary. If in any such instances, either for supplying defects, or remedying abuses, you shall find it requisite to provide any new laws, you may depend upon my ready concurrence in whatever may best contribute to the attainment of those salutary ends."

LONDON, JANUARY 23.

On Tuesday a petition was presented to the Upper House, praying leave to bring in a bill to dissolve the marriage of Lord Ligonier; the prayer of the petition was granted.

By a private letter from Paris there is advice, that the illness of the French King was supposed to have been occasioned by some poison being conveyed into a glass of wine; for his Majesty, soon after drinking of it, felt shooting pains all over his body; but something being given him immediately to expel it, he is now in a fair way of recovery. The letter also says, that a certain priest, confessor to a forsaken mistress, is strongly suspected of being guilty of this wicked attempt, he having absconded.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who appeared at Court on Saturday last for the first time in that character, promises to be an honour to his country; having all his father's virtues, with all his mother's amiableness and understanding.

Notwithstanding the Duke of Cumberland has parted with his Running Horses, it is said he will keep his best Horse, which we are assured, is the grey Mare.

We are assured that the greatest cordiality subsists between the Duke of Grafton and Lord Camden, insomuch that the former has strongly recommended the latter to be President of the Privy Council.

We are informed that a number of very creditable inhabitants of the city of Westminster are drawing up a Petition to be presented to Parliament, relative to the high price of provisions.

JANUARY 24.

A certain Speech was four times mutilated, chopped, and changed, before the Sayer of it approved the contents.

Lord Mansfield was the person who got that original paragraph relative to his Royal Highness the Duke of Cumberland's marriage struck out, previous to its appearance at Whitehall.

Col. Luttrell has declared that he has an intention to vacate his seat in Parliament.

It is said by the politicians at the western coffee houses, that Lord North will very shortly become of more consequence to the state, and of course more fixed and arbitrary in his employment, than any minister in the present reign. His Lordship was first advanced as a temporary substitute to the Duke of Grafton, but he has jockeyed his Grace, and is now become the principal.

We are assured that a bill will be brought into Parliament respecting the imprisonment of debtors; and that it will be enacted, for the future no person shall be confined for debt above a twelve month, after giving up their all upon oath; and that bankrupts will be included in the said act.—It is certain that in Holland business is carried on as safely as in England, and yet no debtor can be arrested in the first instance, nor kept in durance after a certain limited period.

Colonel Luttrell's intended opposition to the Court arises by no means from the indignity cast upon his sister, but on the neglect he himself has experienced from the ministry, after venturing his life in their service. Lord Suffolk, Mr. Wedderburne, and Mr. Whately, who were strong in the popular party at the time of the Middlesex election, are much better provided for than the Colonel, and have their annual Thousands, while he has only Ten Shillings a day by being Adjutant General in Ireland.

JANUARY 25.

Thursday Lord George Germains made a motion in the Lower House for bringing in a bill respecting the repeal of the Game and Dog Acts on the 2d of next month, which was entered in the Journal of the House.

The marriage of her Majesty's brother with the Hon. Miss D'Arcy has been announced at Court, and will certainly be celebrated some time next month.

JANUARY 28.

It is whispered that a certain unfortunate young man, who in the year forty-six was so ill treated by the English and Scotch nobility as to be compelled to make a precipitate retreat from these kingdoms, landed Yesterday morning at Dover, and from thence proceeded across the country in the character of a private gentleman.

We hear the Premier is determined to adopt some very rigorous measures in order to put a stop to the present exorbitant price of all kinds of provisions.

Letters from Amsterdam say, that the Dutch will have 18 sail of men of war ready for service in April next, and that they intend to build several new ships, most of their old ones having been found entirely unfit for use.

Letters from Paris speak of a negotiation being on the carpet, for a treaty of defensive alliance between the Courts of France, Spain, Vienna, and Stockholm.

ST. JAMES'S, January 25. This Day arrived Monsieur Koch, Secretary to his Serene Highness the Hereditary Prince of Hesse Cassel, with the melancholly account of the death of her Royal and most Serene Highness the Laudgravine of Hesse Cassel, who departed this life on the 14th instant, at Hanau, universally lamented.

WARSAW, January 4. To-morrow the King will receive, in public, the compliments of the foreign ministers, the nobility, and other persons of distinction, being the first time of his Majesty's appearance in public since his late accident.

LONDON, JANUARY 31.

By the death of the late Princess of Hesse-Cassel, her Royal Highness the Princess Amelia becomes the only remaining person of the children of King George II.

Little business was done on Monday in the House of Lords. Lord Waldegrave and Lord Bruce reported, that the Address of that Assembly to her Majesty, on the happy event of the birth of the last Prince, was presented; to which her Majesty was graciously pleased to make the following answer:

"My Lords, This fresh instance of your duty to the King, and attention to me, claims my most sincere thanks."

Yesterday morning, between nine and ten, there was almost a total darkness for half an hour. At first there appeared a false light, or sort of halo in the air. The darkness then came on gradually in a thick fog from the south-east, and, extending to the north-west, went off, leaving a sulpherous smell behind it.

The new parliament of Toulouse has rejudged the cause of Peter Paul Sirven, the Feudist of Castres, his wife and son, who, about ten years ago, were condemned on an action of parricide; and have, by a solemn arret, declared the innocence of the condemned, adjudged their former judges to pay all expences of the process, re-established the family of Sirven in their honours and goods; and have further ordered this arret to be made public at the expence of their former judges.

On Wednesday just as the Levee at St. James's was going to begin, an express arrived from Denmark, with an account that a revolution had happened there. The Queen, it seems, had, for some time, been intriguing with her physician. Her growing power, and conduct, occasioned a general alarm, and dissatisfaction among the citizens. They suddenly rose and surrounded the palace; and as suddenly possessed themselves of every department in it. The physician was instantly put into an iron cage. The Queen was made prisoner. And the King was carried directly to the senate; whose deliberations they were attending, when the express came away. Though the King of Denmark is one of the most despotic Sovereigns in the world, yet he must submit to his people. He is now in their possession. When the express left Copenhagen conditions to the King were preparing, which, as there is no material accusation against him, are said to be moderate. Only two of them are at present spoken of. These are, that he shall sign an instrument dissolving his marriage; and that the Queen shall be imprisoned in one of the castles for life. Upon the news of this event the Levee at St. James's was forbid.

Another account says, "The nobles having the fullest information that there had been for some time past an improper connection between the Queen of Denmark and her physician; and having great reason to suppose, from the King's late illness, that poison had frequently been administered to him by the said physician, went in a body to the palace, and insisted upon the King's repairing immediately to the Senate to sign an order for the Queen's perpetual imprisonment, and for the immediate execution of the physician. The King at first shed tears; but being soon convinced by the Nobles of the Queen's infidelity, repaired to the Senate with great manliness and composure, and signed the order for the Queen's imprisonment for life, and for the execution of the physician, whose head was immediately taken off. The Queen was carried to a remote part of the kingdom, and put into confinement. She demanded her children; the youngest (a girl) she was suffered to take with her, but the eldest (a boy) was refused her, and remains at Copenhagen with the King.

A third account says, "The situation of the Court of Denmark is truly unhappy, the intrigue the Queen had, we are told, was with her physician who went from hence. The King hath not been well for above a year, and many hints have been given in the papers concerning him to his disadvantage; but his situation was owing to what had been prescribed by that physician, and, as we are informed, was intended to destroy him by slow degrees: happily there was a suspicion, bureaus were opened, and proof sufficient found of the criminality of the parties, upon which the Doctor was immediately dispatched to the other world, and the Queen confined: Which confinement, it is thought, will continue as long as she lives.

The gentleman who arrived express from Copenhagen on Wednesday at St. James's, is the Secretary to the English Ambassador, Mr. Keith, at that court: He arrived at eleven in the morning, and set out on his return at eleven the same night, by the way of Dover to Calais, attended by one of the King's Messengers, in order to prepare proper carriages and the passage for expediting his return.

Ireland is said to be eased of a pension of 4000 l. by the death of Lord Northington. A correspondent proposes, that all pensions on that establishment may cease with the lives of the pensioners, as the most likely means to conciliate the affections of the sister kingdom.

There will be a Levee at St. James's every Monday during the sessions of parliament.

FEBRUARY 1.

It is said that advice has been received from Copenhagen, that the Queen Dowager is appointed to the Regency. The Nobles are in possession of the King.

To the extraordinary reports in yesterday's papers, a gentleman who knows much of foreign affairs informs us, that he looks on the whole as a State Trick, in order to take an advantage of the youth and inexperience of an amiable young couple. That every reformation, or innovation (as they ill-naturedly term it) made by the King of Denmark since his return home from visiting England, has been represented as coming from his Consort, and a party has been long forming to hurt her, and the King through her, in the opinion of the people; and, no doubt, the late ferment on reforming a regiment of guards, is ill-naturedly attributed to the same agent: That there is a Queen Dowager in that kingdom, who is said to have been ever intriguing, during the life of the late King, in favour of a son by herself, who is now grown up: That as to the part attributed to the Physician, jealousy will go great lengths; and as the Queen was unhappily debarred from having any natives of England near her, except this Physician, the most innocent meetings, when ill-naturedly and wickedly misrepresented, will serve to blacken the brightest character.

Yesterday Summonses were issued out for a Privy Council, to be held this evening at the Cockpit, Whitehall.

Yesterday James Townshend Oswald, Esq; kissed his Majesty's hand on being appointed Secretary of the Leeward Islands in the room of Saville Cockayne Cust, Esq. deceased.

Extract of a Letter from Copenhagen to a Merchant in London.

"I cannot at present, for reasons of prudence, send you a full account of our present confusion, nor are Court Facts sufficiently authentic as yet; and I would not wish to amuse you with the many absurd hear-says which are picked up in conversation, but thus much I can tell you, that the people in general appear to be happy at what has past, as it will totally destroy the cursed influence of a double Cabinet, under which the people have for some time groaned. Though all the public business is carried on in the King's name, his Majesty was nothing more than a tool to sanctify the machinations of a wicked favourite and his junto; the people have not stopt to attribute the influence of this favourite to a criminal familiarity with their Queen, and tho' such as venture at this bold declaration are called defamers by all the court, many good and wise people have for some time expressed their doubts; whether these are mistaken or not, will appear possibly before it is long. The general indignation to see the King abused and the people oppress; to find the wisest and best men dismist from posts of trust and honour, and succeeded by slaves and minions of this wanton favourite, has roused some patriotic spirits from their lethargy, and you will shortly hear that the King is rescued from the hands of this wicked junto; the peace and quiet of the nation restored; the vile favourite punished as he deserves; and the unhappy Lady—but I'll not say what, as she is an unhappy Lady.

We hear that the following removes will be made in the Royal

..., Esq; Rear Admiral of the Blue, to ... the White. Lord Edgcomb, Vice Admi... ..., to be Vice Admiral of the White. James ..., Esq; Vice Admiral of the White, to be Vice Admiral ... Red. Thomas Pye, Esq; Vice Admiral of the Red, to ... Admiral of the Blue. His Grace the Duke of Bolton, and Sir Thomas Frankland, Bart. Admirals of the Blue, to be appointed Admirals of the White Squadron.

The report of a difference subsisting between the Earl of Chatham and Lord Camden is totally groundless.

FEBRUARY 3.

Extract of a Letter from Altona, January 24.

"On the 17th instant her Majesty the Queen, with the young Princess and Lady Mostyn, under a guard of 30 dragoons, were conducted to the fortress of Cronenburg. The Counts Struensee and Brandt, the Counsellor Struenice, General Gahler and his Lady, are likewise sent to prison; the Master of the Horse, Bulow, General Gude, Colonel Falkenschiold, Lieut. General Hesselberg, the Privy-Counsellor Wildebrand, the State's Secretary Zoega, Panning, and more are arrested in their houses, under strong guards. The papers belonging to the above-mentioned persons are sealed up, and commissioners appointed to enquire into the affair. His Majesty gave all his orders relative to the above after he came from the masked ball, at one o'clock in the morning, which were directed to be immediately executed.

"Council-Office. Prince Frederick, Count Ranzau, Tott and Austen, the Prince Charles, and his Lady are ordered to attend.

"Commissioners to examine the affair. Joel Wind, Bream, Stampe, Lupdorf, Karstens, Sexel, Koford Aucker; Prince Frederick is to be Vice Regent."

On Saturday afternoon a second Messenger was sent from the Secretary of State's Office, with dispatches to Robert Murray Keith, Esq; his Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary at the Court of Copenhagen.

Capt. Sutherland, who was detected in an amour with the Lady of General Scott, is gone out of the army on half pay.

FEBRUARY 4.

The Queen Dowager of Denmark is the widow of Frederick the Fifth, who died in the year 1766. She was the Princess Juliana Maria, of Brunswick Wolfenbuttel, and was born the 4th of September, 1729. She is said to be of a lively genius, fond of intrigue, and implacable in her resentments. Her son, by the late King, is Prince Frederick d'Oldenbourg (born the 11th of October, 1753) who is far from being a favourite with the people, from his uncourteous disposition.

We are informed, that one indiscretion, which the Queen of Denmark was guilty of, gave great offence in that kingdom. The ladies of Denmark, unlike our countrywomen, when they ride, bestride their horses like men; but to preserve the decorum of the sex, they wear a petticoat over their drawers or breeches. Unhappily her Majesty looked upon the petticoat as an incumbrance, and when she hunted, dressed herself en Cavalier. This was immediately taken notice of by her enemies as a great act of indecency.

FEBRUARY 5.

Colonel Keith, the British Minister at the Danish Court, hath shewn the greatest spirit and good conduct during the late revolution. It seems the Senate, in the first transports of their fury, had given orders for putting the Queen to immediate death; they had (without hearing her defence, and without any form of trial) unanimously declared her guilty of the adultery and of poisoning her husband; upon which Mr. Keith instantly repaired to the Senate House, and solemnly protested against any act of violence being offered to the Queen; he in the strongest terms urged her innocence, and the improbability of the accusations against her, and concluded with denouncing the vengeance of the British nation, and the terrors of an English fleet, against the Senate and people of Denmark, if any act of violence and injustice was committed on a daughter of Britain, and the sister of the King his Sovereign.

It is determined to send a yatcht to Copenhagen, on board of which is to be embarked a Nobleman of Distinction, who is to be nominated by his Majesty, to demand of the Senate that the Queen of Denmark may be restored to her liberty and sent home; also that a fleet of men of war is immediately to follow the yatcht, which is, in case the demand is not complied with, to bombard the place.

On Monday evening some dispatches were received at the Secretary of State's office from Admiral Rodney at Jamaica. By this vessel, it is said, there is advice, that a frigate was dispatched from Jamaica, to reconnoitre the Havannah; that she saw there sixteen sail of the line, and three frigates, all with their sails bent.

FEBRUARY 6.

We are positively assured, that the Royal Family are fully convinced of the infamy of the charge against the virtue of the Queen of Denmark—their whole anxiety is on account of the unmerited imprisonment of her Majesty; and the apprehensions of her privately falling a sacrifice to the intrigues of the Queen-Mother, before there can have been time for the interposition and firm remonstrances of the Court of Great-Britain, to remove the danger with which the unhappy Queen is surrounded.

A correspondent assures us, that Mungo owes his continuance in Court Favour to his being possessed of so many ministerial Secrets that it would not be safe to dismiss him.

FEBRUARY 8.

Such was the Queen of Denmark's astonishment when she was made acquainted with her fate, that she walked about her apartment bare-footed, without being sensible that she had neither shoes nor stockings on. And when Lieutenant Bay posted himself at her chamber door to prevent her going to the King's apartment, her anger rose to the highest pitch, and she said to him in the Danish language, Wilt thou be gone? Whilst on the road to Cronenburgh the Queen spoke but little to Lady Mostyn who accompanied her.

They write from Stockholm, that the Grand Duke of Holstein Gottorp, uncle to the King of Denmark, is, by the Queen's Council, banished the Danish dominions, and all his effects confiscated.

When the Queen of Denmark was seized, the conspirators tied her hands behind, which being told to the King, affected him very much, and must convince the world, that the Dowager gave orders for it, as none but a woman could order a Queen to be thus treated.

Yesterday policies were opened in the city, when six guineas were given to receive one hundred in case there be a war between Great-Britain and Denmark within six months. Upwards of Twenty Thousand Pounds were done.

On Thursday last Charles Fox, Esq; gave notice in the House of Commons, that he would speedily bring in a bill to repeal the Marriage-act.

ST. JAMES'S, Feb. 8. This morning, between the hours of six and seven, her Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales departed this life, to the great grief of their Majesties and all the Royal Family, after a very long and painful illness, which she bore with the greatest fortitude and resignation.

LONDON, FEBRUARY 10.

Lord North declared in a late debate, that he dreaded some hostilities from the French in the East-Indies. In Europe they are in no condition to break with Great-Britain.

Yesterday the Lords Mansfield and Camden, both attended in the House of Lords, and talked very familiar with each other.

The Lords of ... ghlan Mackclane, Esq; to be ... Customs at Philadelphia.

Her late Royal Highness the Princess Dowager of Wales resided in England exactly 35 years, 9 months, and 1 day; she landed at Greenwich on Easter Monday, April 26, 1736, O. S. She survived the P. of Wales 20 years, 10 months, and 8 days.

A few days before the Princess Dowager died, she ordered a small cabinet, containing several papers and letters to be burnt; amongst them was a large parcel, in the appearance resembling the form of a will.

The Portland man of war, and the Endeavour bark, from Plymouth for the South Seas, with the Astronomers on board, arrived safe at the Maderas in December last.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 21. All the Queen's Houshold, excepting only three ladies who have been dismissed, set out from hence the 19th, for Cronenburgh.

A Commission is formed in order to draw up the accusations against the State Prisoners. It began to sit this day for the first time.

Our Gazettes have given notice, that "To-morrow, by order of his Majesty, Te Deum will be sung in all the churches of this capital, for the conservation (in the present circumstances) of the King, of the Royal family, and of the whole kingdom."

LONDON, FEBRUARY 11.

His Majesty was determined to remove yesterday, with the Queen, to Richmond, to give vent in solitude and retirement to a load of complicated griefs which hardly a Royal Breast was ever pressed with before; but his physicians opposed this resolution so strongly, on account of the damp and unwholesomness of the weather, that he was prevailed upon, though with much difficulty, to defer it for a day or two.

Her late Royal Highness had by an act of parliament of the 10th of King George II. a revenue of 50,000 l. per annum for life, in case she survived the Prince, which was to be paid quarterly, and the first payment took place five days after his decease; 40,000 l. of that annuity was to be paid out of the revenues of the Post-office, and the other 10,000 l. out of the hereditary duties of Excise, exempt from all fees, taxes, or charges.

It is remarkable that Frederick Prince of Wales, George the Second, and the late Princess Dowager, died each on a Saturday.

The Society in the Strand have given Mr. St. Pierre, a French gentleman from South-Carolina, their gold medal for producing wines in that part of the British dominions; but the banks of the Missisippi are said to be so uncommonly favourable to the culture of vines, that a quarter cask of delicious wine has been produced from a single slip of the Burgundy grape.

ST. JAMES'S, Feb. 11. The King has been pleased to constitute and appoint Soame Jenyns, Edward Eliot, John Roberts, and Bamber Gascoyne, Esqrs. the Hon. Robert Spencer, Esq; commonly called Lord Robert Spencer, the Hon. George Greville, Esq; commonly called Lord Greville, and William Jollyse, Esq; to be his Majesty's Commissioners for trade and plantations.

LONDON, FEBRUARY 13.

Orders are sent to the Governor of Mahon, and the commander of the fleet in the Mediterranean, to stop the Danish men of war in that part of the world till further orders. This spirited act of the ministry will greatly embarrass the Queen-Mother of Denmark's party, who have given orders for that fleet to sail immediately for Copenhagen.

The additional Commissioners of revenue in Ireland have been, contrary to law, sworn into their offices. The first consequence of this arbitrary step will be a remonstrance to his Majesty, which is to be presented by a very respectable deputation of the Commons of Ireland, consisting of 21 members, who are expected in about a week or ten days.

A committee of the Livery waited on the Lord Mayor, on Tuesday last, to request his Lordship to grant a Common Hall, and issue the usual Precepts. The committee yesterday received his Lordship's answer in a letter, which contained a refusal.

The intention of calling the Livery together was, that instructions might be given to the city Members, to support the motion which Mr. Sawbridge is to make the 24th instant, in a great Assembly, to shorten the duration of Parliaments.

"The last letters from Dantzick of good authority advise, that an Officer from the Grand Signior is now at Jassy, the capital of Moldavia, the head quarters of the Field Marshal Count Romanzow, negotiating a treaty of peace, which it is supposed will be preceded by a suspension of arms, as an insurrection is apprehended at Constantinople, unless the populace are appeased, on account of the high price of provisions, which nothing can remedy but the restoration of peace."

Notwithstanding the Mails from Holland assert the contrary, a subsequent letter from Paris mentions the death of the Empress Queen of Hungary as a fact. The silence of the Imperial minister at our Court seems to favour the account; should it prove true, the most subtle politicians seem unanimous in their opinion, that the young Emperor will speedily make a declaration of war, as he seems possessed of an enterprizing and martial genius. What effect this would have upon the tranquility of Europe, may in some degree be foreseen.

FEBRUARY 15.

There is certain information received that the King of Prussia is the main spring in a Northern Revolution. He has secured Sweden, he persuades Russia, he rules the Councils of Holland, he commands in Denmark; the whole North is at his devotion.

Extract of a Letter from Hamburgh, January 28.

"Advices from Saxony bring the most dreadful accounts of the misery and want which reign in some provinces of that Electorate, particularly in the circle of the mountains named Ertzgebourg, where the inhabitants die of hunger and the want of every necessary. The garrison of the little town of Sentftenbourg is retired, on account of a contagious distemper which has broke out among them. By the same advices we learn, that the Elector has made a great reform among his troops; three companies of each regiment have been dismissed, and he has reduced those that remain to a very small number of men. The same diminution has been made in the cavalry, where there are but fifteen men in a company kept up."

FEBRUARY 18.

Among a variety of particulars that ought to be remembered to the honour of the late Princess Dowager of Wales, was her appointing, without any solicitation, that real ornament to human nature, Dr. Stephen Hales to be her Clerk of the Closet, and upon his death erecting, at her own expence, a handsome monument for him in Westminster-Abbey.—She afterwards bestowed the same office on the celebrated Dr. Edward Young, author of Night Thoughts, &c.—So solicitous was that much injured Lady, upon every occasion, to distinguish and reward real merit.

In pursuance of an order of the House of Commons of Ireland, his Majesty's Letters Patent, appointing the seperate Boards of Custom and Excise, were laid before the House, as were also the King's Letters to the Lord Lieutenant for that purpose, Mr. Ponsonby moved, that they might be read, and accordingly the Clerk read the Patent, appointing Sir William Osborne, Sir Francis Bernard (the Tyrant of New-England), John Monck Mason, Robert Waller, William Montgomery, to be Commissioners of Excise. As this patent consisted of no less than five skins of parchment, the House was pretty well tired before it was finished; and the other patent and letters were ordered to lie on the table, to be perused by the members.
